

Cary Building

Address: 229 Gratiot

Local

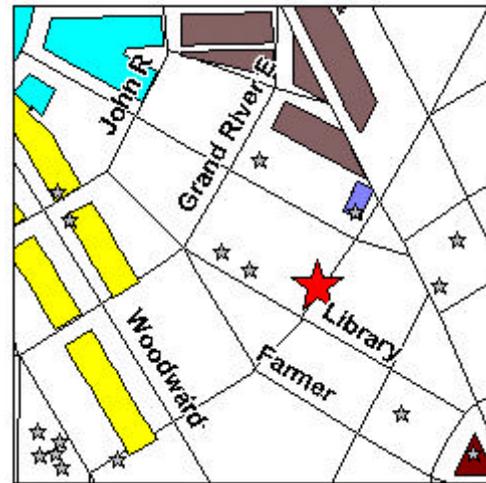

State

State Marker

National            v            11/25/83

Cary Building, 2003

Historic Overview:

The Cary Building is significant as an early commercial-style building noted for its strong expression of structural bays and the sweeping arches that cap them. The Cary Building is an important work of prominent Detroit architect Richard E. Raseman. Along with Raseman's Breitmeyer/Tobin Building located directly across the street, the Cary Building started the transformation of Miami Avenue, then renamed Broadway, from an affluent residential area into a highly fashionable women's shopping area. The Cary Building is also significant for its association with Frank M. Cary who speculated in Detroit real estate.

Text as written from Woodward Heritage.com

